A NICE CUP OF TEA

- GEORGE ORWELL

Eric Arthur Blair, better known by his pen name George Orwell, was an English novelist, essayist, journalist and critic, whose work is marked by lucid prose, awareness of social injustice, opposition to totalitarianism and outspoken support of democratic socialism.

- George Orwell

One of the most influential statements of the British 'way of tea' is George Orwell's essay. 'A nice cup of tea' published in the evening standard on 12 January 1946. It was written at a time when tea was rationed and in short supply, against the backdrop of severe food shortage across Europe. The process of tea making is a subject matter of violent disputes. The author has come up with eleven golden rules for preparation of a nice tea. First he begins to insist on using an Indian or Ceylonese Tea, to feel wiser, braver and more optimistic. Tea should be made in small quantities' in a china or earthenware. The pot should be warmed beforehand. Tea should always be strong and it should be put straight into the teapot. We should take the teapot to the kettle and after making tea, one should stir it well. Tea should be drunk out of a cylindrical type of cup, as it holds more tea. Milk that is too creamy always gives the tea a sickly taste. So we should pour the cream of the milk. Two of these rules are generally agreed by the public, but at least four other are actually controversial. 'What should be poured first in the cup' has become a subject of controversial points. George Orwell says that one should pour tea first in the cup. While most of the people prefer to add sugar in the tea, the author says to add pepper or salt to it. If we drink tea without sugar for a fortnight, we would never ruin tea by sweetening it again. He claims that there are some mysterious social etiquettes surrounding the tea pot. It is vulgar to drink tea out of one's saucer. There are some subsidiary uses of tea leaves such as telling fortunes, predicting the arrival of visitors, feeding rabbits, healing burns and sweeping the carpet.

IF YOU ARE COLD, TEA WILL WARM YOU;
IF YOU ARE TOO HEATED, IT WILL COOL YOU;
IF YOU ARE DEPRESSED, IT WILL CHEER YOU;
IF YOU ARE EXCITED, IT WILL CALM YOU.

THE SUMMIT

EDMUND HILLARY

Sir Edmund Hillary (1919 -2008) was one of the greatest explores and mountaineers of the twentieth century. His conquest of mount Everest and the south pole inspired generations of adventures and dreamers. This story of 'The Summit' narrates the achievement of Edmund Hillary and Tenzing Norgay. They achieved success in climbing to the summit of the Mount Everest. John Hunt led the expedition to Mount Everest on May 29th 1953, six men started for the expedition. They were Edmund Hillary, Tenzing, George Lowe, Alfred Gregory and the two Sherpas, Pemba and Ang Nyima. As Pemba was too ill to climb, others climbed that day to a height of 27,900 feet. At 4 a.m., they began to get ready for the climb. Hillary dragged their oxygen sets into the tent, cleaned the ice off them and then rechecked and tested them. They pulled three pairs of gloves on to their hands. At 6.30 am, they hoisted 30 lb. Of oxygen gear on to their backs, connected their masks and turned on the valves to bring life into their lungs. They traversed back towards the ridge. The soft snow made a route on top of the ridge both difficult and dangerous. As one person was belaying, the other person would go on cutting.

I literally cramponed backwards up the crack, praying that the cornice would remain attached to the rock. My progress although slow was steady.

They had to escape the large overhanging cornices by cutting a line of steps down to where the snow met the rocks on the west. The time was passing and the ridge seemed never-ending, Hillary looked upwards to see a narrow snow ridge running up to a snowy summit with a few more whacks of the ice-axe in the firm snow, they can be on the top. They were relieved and grinned at each other, as they looked all around them. They shook hands and thumped each other on the back until they were breathless. It was 11.30 a.m. He felt that the important photograph was a short down the North Ridge, showing the North col. Tenzing made a small hole in the snow and placed various small articles of food in it. Hillary also made a small hole in the snow and placed in it a crucifix, which was given to him by John Hunt. They scrambled cautiously over the rock traverse, moved one at a time over shaky snow sections and finally cramponed up their steps and back on to South Peak. They reached their tent at 2.00 p.m. Then they turned downwards safely descended the ridge to the South Col. It was an unforgettable day for them. They had climbed to the top. There were shouts of joy, handshakes and hugs for the two heroes. The adventure was over. They made the impossible possible. They proved 'There is no height, no depth that the spirit of man guided by a higher spirit, cannot attain'. 'There are Everest to be climbed in our everyday life'.

THE CASTLE

- EDWIN MUIR

EDWIN MUIR lived from 15th May 1887 to 3rd January 1959. He was a novelist and translator as well as one of Scotland's most important poets of 1900s. "The Castle" by Edwin Muir details a post event of castle's over taking through account of a soldier, who witnessed the castle's fall first hand. It tells the story of an unspecified battle. The soldiers of the Castle were totally stress free and related. They were confident of their castle's physical strength. Through the turrets, They were able to watch mowers and no enemy was found up to the distance of half-a-mile and so it seemed no threat to the castle. Secondly the fear of enemies diminished that is they had plenty of weapons to protect and a large Quantity of ration in stock to take care of the well-being of the soldiers, who were inside the castle. There was a foothold, from which an advance military operation is made. They believed that the castle was absolutely safe because their captain was brave and soldiers were loyal. Even by a trick no one could enter into the castle. Only a bird could fly over the wall and reach the castle. No soldiers would be attracted with a bribe for the entry inside the castle. But there was evil old guard, who was fascinated by the bribery of the enemies and let them in through a little private gate. He became a victim of bribery given by the enemies. Hence the enemies conquered the castle. The citadel was known for its secret galleries and intricating path. The strong castle became grew and thin because of the greedy disloyal warder. The narrator lamented over the disloyalty of the guard and he was feeling ashamed to tell anyone about this shameful act of the guard. The citadel was captured by the enemies for gold. He regretted for not finding any weapon to fight with enemy called gold. Thus "Human greedy led to the mighty fall of the citadel".

INCIDENT OF THE FRENCH CAMP

- ROBERT BROWNING

The poem ‘The Incident of the French Camp’ written by Robert Browning narrates an actual incident in the war in 1809 between France and Austria, led by Napoleon.

Napoleon has been a great motivator to his army. His Military skill and genius have won him many admirers. When the poem begins, we get a description of the great warrior Napoleon standing on a little mound and watching the war anxiously. His mind was oppressive with many thoughts and he felt that all his ambition plans would become futile if they failed (the army leader Lannes) to conquer Ratisbon.

Out twixt the battery-smokes there flew.
A rider, bound on bound Full-galloping ; nor bridle drew until he reached the mound.

Though the poem does not give a detailed description of the battle, We come to know that the young boy has played a vital role in bringing triumph to the French army. The young boy riding at great speed approached the mound where Napoleon stood, in smiling joy. As he came closer, the narrator observed that the rider, a young boy, was severely wounded. The boy had kept his lips compressed to stop the blood coming through. But he showed no sign of pain and jumped off the horse and gave the happy news of Victory to the emperor. He informed the emperor that they had won Ratisbon for him and he himself had hoisted the flag of France. Soon his eyes softened when he saw that the boy was fatally wounded. Like a caring mother eagle, he asked the boy if he was wounded. This question touched the soldier's pride and he replied that he was killed and fell dead, smiling beside his chief. Courage and patriotism are the basic qualities of not only an emperor, but also every soldier. Soldiers fight their enemy not only for monetary considerations, but for the honour of their motherland. It is evident that the young soldier obtained virtues like devotion to duty, patriotism, gallantry and chivalry from Napoleon, the legendary warrior.

“ A MAN IS A PATRIOT IF HIS HEART BEATS TRUE TO HIS COUNTRY”

THE HOUR OF TRUTH

- PERCIVAL WILDE

“Every hour is the hour of truth”

Percival Wilde (1887-1953) was an American author and playwright. He wrote novels, short stories and one -act plays. “The Hour of truth” is an intense psychological study. This one act play particularly shows how easily people forget their moral values and principles. We can see the battle between ‘self’ and ‘society’ in the Character of Mr. Robert Baldwin, the secretary of a bank and the bank President Mr. John Gresham. Robert Baldwin is the Protagonist of this play. He leads a simple life with his wife Martha and his son John and daughter Evie. He is a man of Principles. He is an honest, diligent and hardworking employee . He has been Working in the bank for more than 35Years. He is not ready to make any kind of compromise with his morality. He is Working under John Gresham in a Bank. Baldwin had been thick friend for over 30 years and Baldwin had even named his son after Gresham. When his friend John Gresham was arrested for the misappropriation in bank account, Baldwin was not ready to make any Kind of compromise and decided to part with him. Just before being arrested Gresham offered him one hundred thousand dollars to just say “I don't remember”.

The play brings a positive note when the bad people get punished and the good people get rewarded

Both Martha and John were Very happy to get a huge sum from Gresham, so that their family would also grow rich to some extent. When they came to know that Baldwin had rejected the generous offer made by Gresham and justified Gresham's act of offering money, stating that it was a compensation for his low salary. So they started convincing Baldwin to accept the bribe. John also accused Baldwin of betraying his dear friend Gresham. He also told that Baldwin will not get an employment anywhere, as he will be considered a traitor. John compelled Baldwin to accept the money offered by Gresham. Thus Martha and John reacted in an unjust way when Baldwin had rejected the generous offer made by Gresham. Baldwin, felt disgusted with himself and the attitude of his family members. To save Baldwin, Mr. Marshall, president of the Third National, Visited him and informed him that Gresham had confessed his crime, in order to free him from betraying his trusted friend and testifying painfully against him. Mr. Marshall also offered Baldwin a job in his Bank, to reward him for his 'honesty' and 'Integrity'. At the end of the play the reader realizes that money only brings 'isolation', 'punishment', 'deception', 'frustration' and 'endless shame'. Money has a great influence on people but not on truthful- Virtues get rewarded.

ALL SUMMER IN A DAY

- RAY BRADBURY

Ray Douglas Bradbury(1920-2012) was an American author best known for his highly imaginative short stories. Much of his work was 'fantasy', 'horror' or 'mysteries'. This story is set on the 'PLANET VENUS', where the sun shines for only two hours once every seven years. Margot a frail, pale girl is the young protagonist in "All summer in a Day". It deals with a group of school children who live on the planet Venus with their families. The children have only seen the sun in their lives when they were two years old, but now they don't remember how it looks or feels. And they are eagerly waiting for a momentous occasion. It has been continuously raining for seven years and now the scientists on Venus have predicted that the sun will appear for a brief period of two hours. Their dream about sun like a yellow crayon or a gold coin leaves them aspire for more. Hence Margot's description of the sun makes them envy (greet) her

"All a joke!" Said the boy, and seized her roughly.
"Hey, everyone, let's put her in a closet before the teacher comes!"

All the children resent (dislike) her for various reasons. Especially William, envied Margot because she is the only one of them who can remember seeing the sun. Though she tries to describe the sun she experienced, the other don't believe her. She is depressed about being on Venus. She did not mingle well with the other children. It seems to them as if she thinks she is better than they are. Therefore, right before the sun comes out. They lock her in a windowless closet. After some moments, the rain stops and the sun appears. All the children run, play and enjoy the light of the sun. After some time, the rain clouds appear. The sun retreats and the rain begins to fall. A girl remembers that Margot is locked in the closet. They realized whatever Margot said about the sun was a truth. The girl then walk towards the closet where they left Margot. They unlock the door and Margot slowly comes out. Margot's cruel classmates treated her differently. They probably felt bad for making Margot to miss the beautiful sight of the sun. They felt ashamed of their actions. This shows their guilt stricken mind. The writer wants to convey that the power of the sun over the children living on Venus is notable. They are pale and colourless. The lack of the sun has washed away their compassion and consideration and empathy for the people. They do not regain this until the sun reappears. The sun is life- giving for the landscape as well as the inhabitants of Venus.

Introduction

Mobile phone is a palm held device which has revolutionized the world of communication. A mobile phone does not require fixed landline and makes two way communication easy and affordable. Telegram department had to be closed due to the lightning speed with which messages could be sent orally or through SMS.

Mobile functions and advantages

A mobile phone can be used for watching cricket, movie or just listen to news. Students now google for collecting information for their assignments and projects. A recent survey says 50% of youth read newspapers only through their android phones. The habit of reading books or dictionaries is falling due to quick access to information via mobile and internet services. Through Ola and Uber apps one can summon a call taxi or even order food from Uber eats or Old food through these apps for a cheap cost. railway and flight tickets can be booked online. Memorable events can be frozen in photos or videos and saved in the phone itself. Money transfer is now possible through using Pay TM, Bhim app or google money app. As many online newspapers are freely available, people save money. Big Bazaar sells even vegetables through phone. Flipkart and Amazon apps help one to place order for any home appliances at competitive prices.

Disadvantages

Social websites such as whatsapp, twitter and facebook keep young ones continuously engaged and crazy for likes. Sometimes evil doers access valuable information and exploit women and children. Sharing vital information, photos, videos, etc. with total strangers can jeopardize one's honour and life too. Students who get addicted to video games and watching explicit content waste their time and energy and dropout of schools.

Conclusion

Mobile phone is a technological marvel. Similar to any new technology, it has its fascinating traps . One must use mobile phones judiciously and stay out of harm and disgrace.

Hi friend ,

How are you? hope you are fine and fit as fiddle. This holiday I went to Delhi. There I had enjoyed a lot .The trips to the India gate, Red Fort, Lotus Temple, Qutub minar, Raj Ghat ,Chidiya Ghar are ten times more fun for me than shopping . Especially in Chidiya Ghar we ran into many different and interesting types of wild life that added even more to the trip. This was my first major hiking trip I had taken, and it got me hooked for life .Therefore , these things go hand in hand , and are definitely a huge and important part of my future hopefully. Convey my regards to all.

THE BEE AND THE PEGION

One day a bee was flying above a stream. Suddenly it hit a branch of a neighbouring Oak tree and fell into the water. The bee could not fly as its wings were wet and struggle to come out of the water. There was a pigeon on the branch of a tree and saw the pitiable bee in the water. The pigeon felt sympathy for the bee and dropped a leaf from the Oak tree nearby the bee.

The bee who was exhausted after the struggle to get out of the water, got on the leaf and managed to save its life. The bee's wings were not wet anymore and he could fly. The bee thanked the pigeon for rescuing it and flew away.

Several days later, a hunter came into the forest looking for a wild animal. Unfortunately he was unable to hunt any animal for his meal. He sat under the Oak tree and rested a while. He saw the pigeon sleeping on a branch and thought of hunting the pigeon. Then the bee, rescued by the pigeon was flying nearby and saw the huntsman. The bee bit the hunter and he screamed in pain.
